Final Adjournment of the Soldiers' and Sailers' Union.

Proceedings of the Mass Convention of the Hoys in Blue.

A THOROUGHLY HARMONIOUS AND EM-PHATIC SESSION.

> SPIRIT OF THE CONVENTIONS. THE GOOD WORK DONE.

Special Disputch to The N. Y. Tribuns. SYNACUSE, Thursday, Sept. 20, 1866. The mass Convention of Soldiers and Sailors which met here to-day has fully entered into the good work commenced yesterday by the Convention of Soldiers' and Sailors' Union of the State of New York. The two bodies, although entirely distinct in organization and purpose, have nevertheless been actuated by a similar spirit—a spirit engendered by the crisis thrust upon the country by the enemies of the Government at the North in conjuntion with unreconstructed Rebels at the South. The expressions of a untiment in both Conventions recognize the importance of the exigency which has arisen, and convey in an unmistakable manner the determination of the soldiers and sailors of the Empire State to meet the issues of the hour as boldly and unffinchingly as they encoun tered the Rebels upon many a bloody battle field. The speeches delivered yesterday and to-day possess the true ging of patriotism, and the echoes will come back again from the November polls. The Convention to-day has been fully attended the large hall being filled to its utmost capacity by an assemblage challenging admiration, as well for the amount of intelligence in the aggregate exhibited, as for the self-sacrifleing devotion to the country displayed through the proceedings.

All the speakers have been identified with the good cause, and have had part in the struggle either upon the battlefield or in fighting Copperheads and traitors at home. The Delegates have fully represented the loyal soldiers and sailors of this State, and not the skulkers and affiliators with treason. Among the delegates are those who have been maimed by Robel bullets, and who came here to deliberate upon the best means of seeing the blessings of a peace which their valor and sacrifice seem to have but partially secured, through the apostasy of those whom the people

THE ADDRESS, opted by the Convention is a very able chared document, and will prove expans an auxiliary to the present campaign, to history of the issues before the position of President Lincoln and the Cintod States to secure freedom for the ative. It was listened to with great attack by acceptantion.

pact race moperative. It was insected to a grant partial and adopted by acclamation.

This evening the gallery of the hall was filled with ladies, the weather having sufficiently cleared off to allow them to be in attendance. For several days the weather has been intolerably wet, and the streets particularly nasty and objectionable. But the rain has had no effect expent the Conventionists, for nothing can possibly dampen ably wet, and the streets particularly mable. But the rain has had no effect conists, for nothing can possibly dampen their arder and determination

The Convention this evening appointed the following gentlemen delegaces to the Pittsburgh Convention from the City of New-York: Gen. W. R. Stevens, Col. Rush C. Hawkins, Col. T. B. Van Buren, Gen. Jos. E. Hamlin, Gen. Alex. Shaler, Gen. G. F. Piersen, Gen. R. B. Potter, Gen. McKibben, Gen. H. E. Tremaine, Gen. John A. Foster, Gen. G. P. Cluseret, Col. J. J. Asior, Jr., Col. Charles R. THE ADJOURNMENT.

The Convention remained in session until a late hour, and finally separated with evident reductance. The action of the body has been pronounced a great success in all respects. A more enthusiastic assemblage has never compregated in this State, nor one more respeciable in character and numbers. A good time generally has been eajoyed, and the hearty cheers which closed the deliberations of the organization gave assurance that the deligates will give a good account of themselves, when they return to their homes, and from now until after election.

FINAL ADJOURNMENT OF THE SOLDIERS' AND SAILORS'

Syrracuse, Seat. 26.—The Convention of the Soldiers and Sallors' State Union was called to order by President McKeon at 10 o'clock. The report of the Committee on Officers of the Union for the ensuing year through Col. Hopper, the Charman, was as follows:

THE SOLDIERS' AND SAILORS' MASS CONVEN-TION.

OPENING PROCEEDINGS.

SYRACUSE, Thursday, Sept. 20, 1806. The Soldiers' and Saliors' Mass Convention met pursuant to call at Shakespeare Hall at noon to-day. Secretary of State Major-Gen. Francis C. Barlow called the Convention to order. The Convention was then formally opened with prayer by Brevet Brig.-Gen. Van Petten.

Gen. Barlow nominated as Temporary Chairman of the Convention Adjutant E. B. Lansing of Auburn, who, on assuming the chair, delivered a surcastic and stirring speech. He spoke of the objects of the Convention. He reviewed most scathingly the sets of President Johnson, and recommended to him the example of Cosar, who had he Britts, and Charles the First, who had his Cromwell. He referred to the treachery of that great leader from The referred to the treatment of that gives teater from whose home the speaker came, and bitterly denounced his course. "An irrepressible conflict is now arising, which will be felt all over the country." He adverted to the threats of war, and expressed the readiness of the loyal soldiers and saliers to maintain the right in the future as they had in the past. If war must come, they are ready for it.

Col. George D. Kellogg of New-York, Capt. C. R.

Knowles of Albany, Col. Frederick L. Manning of Seneca, Col. A. J. Smith of Onondaga, and Capt. Frank

Myers of Eric were appointed temporary Secretaries.

The wounded and disabled delegates of the State Union

AN ADDRESS BY GEN. WOODFORD.

Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, the Union candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, addressed the Convention. He advocated at length the poticy of Congress, and, referring to the campaign now pending, he said that while the Union party would pledge in advance obedience to the popular versict if it were against them, they would compel obedience to that verdict if it were in their favor. He appeared to the soldiers and sailors present to sustain this position; and the great assemblage responded with an enthusance approval.

SPEECH OF SENATOR WILSON.

Senator Henry Wilson of Massachusetts spoke in review of President Johnson's apostasy, arraigning him foall the wees that now beest the South, charging him will all the wees that now beset the South, charging him with being the willing dupe of reconstructed Rebels in a scheme to deliver the Nation into their centrol, on condition that he should be reflected. He defended Congress as havin sought no contest, but as having stood true and irina to the cause of freedom, and as now being in antagonism to usurpation and treason. He believed the proposed Consti-tional Amendment would be ratified and incorporated in the Constitution. But if this failed, we should go further, and at no distant day carry into operation the principle of universal suffrage throughout the length and breadth of the land.

EVENING SESSION.

At 71 o'clock the Convention was again called to order, and, by request, the resolutions were read by Gen. Barnum, after which the address and resolutions were sep-they met the issues of the country, and called upon the "Boys in blue" to stand up suparely in the coming fight at the ballot box as they had already upon the blue dy field. Alluding to the election of Verment and of Maine and of the prospects of Pennsylvania and Ohio, he propheside a majority of 50,000 to Reuben E. Fenton and his follow-candidates.

Senator Pomeroy of Kansas was introduced, and reviewed clearly and affectingly the rise and progress of the differences between Congress and the President, concluding by showing that the blame lies not with the former. The controversy is not between the President and Sumner and Stevens, but fetween those who are unwilling to yield the results of four years of bloody strife and those who wish to set aside these results and arrogate to themselves all powers. He themselve up the constitutional amendment, and gave a searching exposition of its fundamental points that was convincing to the most incredulors. The Control of the most incredulors. MERTING OF THE UNION STATE CONVENTION—THE UNION RATIFICATION MEETING, AT NEWARR -3,000 CONSTRUCTIONAL AMENDMENT INDORSED AND CON-PIDENCE REPOSED IN CONGRESS-ALPRED DACKENT

NOMINATED FOR GOVERNOR. Special Disputch to The N. Y. Tribenic. Exterior. N. C., Thursday, Sept. 90, 1866.

The State meeting of the Union men held to-day in this city was not largely attended, owing to the searcity of money, but the delegates in attendance from a distance were men of influence and ability. Ex-Gov. Holden of Wake was called to the chair, and Messrs. Logan of Rutherford, and Doughty of Craven, appointed Secreta-Rutherford, and Doughty of Craven, appointed Secretaries. On motion, a Committee of ten from different Counties of the State was appointed to draft resolutions. The second resolution indozes the Howard amendment, and recommends its passage by the General Assembly of North Carolina. The third expresses full considence in Congress. The fourth expresses willingness to cooperate without obstinate adherance to any special plan or policy with Congress and the Ex-cutive to secure a restoration of the Union. The fifth repudiates the claims of Gov. Worth to re-election as a Union man, and the sixth nominates Alfred Dackeny of Richmond for Governor. The resolutions were manimously adopted.

Alfred Dackeny is a true man, and has thus defined his position:

Afrea Dackeny is a true man, and mas the position:
"I prefer the Howard amendment, or anything else, to the results of non-reconstruction."

Ix Gov. Holden delivered an address in favor of the Howard amendment, and opposing the repudiation of the debt of the State contracted previous to the war, or private debts. An Excentive State Committee will be appointed consisting of 15 members. Steps were taken to inform the toople of the action of the meeting, and to organize the Union party more thoroughly.

WASHINGTON.

THE NEW YORK NAVAL OFFICE.

Gen. William S. Hillyer has withdrawn his name as an applicant for the Naval Office at New York. This has excited great surprise here, as it was understood that the General had the inside track. Rumor is busy as to the cause of this movement. It is understood that the relations between the President and General Hillyer are of the most cordial character, but politicians are cadeavoring to ally Gen. Grant in the matter, and it is said that Hillyer, knowing Grant's excessive repugnance to being mixed up with political strife and party combinations, and upon learning the rumors afont at once addressed a note to the President withdrawing his name. THE SOLDIERS' BOUNTIES.

The report of the Commission appointed by the Secretary of War to device the manter of paying the na ditional bounties to soldiers of 1861 and '62 under the Act of July 22, 1866, of which I relegraphed you on the 16th, has, like the former report, been suppressed, and Secretary McCulloch states that not one dollar shall go out of the treasury for these

DESTRUCTION OF RAHLROAD AND OTHER PROPERTY.

CINCINNATI, Thursday, Sept. 20, 1866.
The heavy rain storm still continues. With the exception of the Little Miami and Marietta and Cincinnati Roads every railroad leading out of this city has been damaged to such an extent as to interrupt the running of trains. The Indianapolis and Cincinnati Road has lost three bridges, but the more important one over the Great Miami has so far escaped.

The Hamilton and Dayton and Atlantic and Great Western roads are interrupted at Elk Creek. The Dayton and Michigan road has lost three bridges. The Indiana and Central road has also lost three bridges between Cambridge City and Indianapolis. The Chicago and Eastern road is damaged between Richmond and Chicago, but to what extent is not known. Trains were withdrawn on both ends of this road yesterday.

The Columbus, Piqua and Indianapolis road has lost its great bridge at Piqua. A portion of the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad bridge over the Great Miami is down. If the storm subsides it is thought the roads will be in operation storm subsides it is thought the roads will be in operation again by to-morrow.

Unprecedented freshets are reported on all sides.

White Water River is reported seven and a half feet higher than in 1847. The great corn-fields along the bottoms of the Big Miami have suffered considerably, the flood in the fields being higher than the tallest cornstalks. Fences for scores of miles have been carried off by the flood. The Scioto River, at Columbus, has overflowed its banks, inundating the whole valley west of the river and north of the National road.

A great many families have been driven from their homes, and compelled to seek shelter in second stories of dwellings.

A dispatch from Dayton says that the Miami and its tributaries are several inches higher than in the great flood of 1848.

The lowest part of Dayton is submerged.
The village of McPhersonville, across the river, is 10 feet under water. Enormous damage has been done to the corn-fields in the valley. Three men were drowned at Pegua and one killed by the falling timbers of a bridge. The Ohio river, at this point, has risen 10 feet in the last 24 hours.

Nours.

PURTHER PARTICULARS.

CINCINNATI, Thursday, Sept. 20, 1866.

With the exception of slight showers this afternoon, the rain has ceased. There are indications, however, of more rain.

It is intimated that 20,000,000 busbels of corn have been destroyed by the freshet in the Miami bottoms.

The reports from the North-West represent the flood-as general, and causing an immense destruction of property.

It will require from four to five weeks to repair the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad bridge across the Big Miami. In the mean time, the connection is made with Lawrence-burg by boats.

urg by boats. A dispatch from Indianapolis says the Bellefontaine and A dispatch from Indianapolis says the Bellefontaine and Peru and Indianapolis are the only roads that have been running trains regularly from that city. The Jefferson-ville Haliroad bridge, four miles south of Indianapolis, is washed away, and it is reported that the track at Edensburg and Columbus, Ind., is submerged.

The Columbus and Indianapolis Railroad is badly damaged. Four bridges are washed away between Indianapolis and Richmood.

The Terre Haute and Indianapolis road is not so badly damaged. The regular train went out on this road to-day. The Lafayette Road lost one bridge, but the trains got through by transferring passengers.

INDIANAPOLIS, Thursday, Sept. 90, 1806.

The corn crop in the low lands along the rivers and streams in this section is greatly damaged by the flood.

Trains on all the railroads centering here will run regularly to-morrow, except those on the Indiana Central and the Louisville roads, both of which roads will suffer severely for several days before communication is fully recetablished.
